About me

Working as a Senior Business Analyst with over 8 years of professional experience in FMCG and manufacturing sectors, I specialize in procurement, supply chain optimization, and data-driven decision-making. My expertise spans analytics, business intelligence, and process improvement that drive organizational growth. I am a calm, family-oriented individual with a practical approach to life. I value both tradition and modern thinking, believing in a balanced lifestyle that respects cultural roots while embracing contemporary perspectives. My philosophy centers on continuous learning, personal growth, and contributing meaningfully to society. In my leisure time, I enjoy reading extensively, particularly on geopolitics and international affairs, travelling to explore different cultures, and trying diverse cuisines. I am also passionate about working on professional development projects related to advanced analytics and emerging technologies.
